'Simplified' Confusion
A helpful guide penetrating bureaucratic gobbledegook may solve problems for businesses mystified by the legal jargon of requirements for government purchasing contracts.

The handbook, entitled "1972 Government Contracts Guide," promises to explain technicalities in important areas of public contract work such as eligibility, labor rules and final payments in plain language. The guide includes checklists of required and permissible contract clauses along with relevant legal cases. The Commerce Cleaning House in Chicago was clever to produce such a simplified work. The only problem is that their "short cut" is 916 pages long. - Jacksonville (Fla.) Florida Times-Union

Pinked

The students at Scottsdale Community College in Arizona have voted to send their football team onto the field clad in lovely pink and white. They voted for those colors to protest the amount of money being spent on athletics at the expense of academic programs.

We suspect that Scottsdale's football players will emerge as a hardier breed as a result of this. If they can stand the taunts of opponents, they should be as fierce as a boy named Sue. - Charlotte (N.C.) Observer

'In Ten Seconds This Can...'
At last the scientists are getting around to creating something many of us have been wishing for - a plastic bottle that will disintegrate when discarded. The American Chemical Society heard encouraging reports of recent developments in producing a self-destruction container.

Ah, well and enough! After plastic, then perhaps glass and metal containers. And if such progress in all three types brings containers which will, as it looks like the new plastics will do, disintegrate and become part of the soil perhaps some day it may become our civic duty to fling cans and bottles along the roadside. - Anniston (Ala.) Star

Yawns

In Little Thurlow, England, Reuters reports, a farm laborer yawned a little too widely and it took seven hours for doctors from three hospitals to close his mouth again.

The Reuters story, unfortunately, is a little incomplete; it doesn't say whether the yawn was caused by fatigue or boredom. And, as another season of political speech-making begins on this side of the Atlantic, it just might have been useful to know how the doctors solved the problem. -Wall Street Journal

'Floury' Headlines

There was a clever headline on a story about American bakers asking the Cost of Living Council for price increases. Using the current vernacular, the headline read: "Bakers Want More 'Bread.'"

If that was a puzzle for the older readers, we could have changed it to read more plainly, "Bakers Want More 'Dough.'" -Columbia (S.C.) State

At Where-Away Gift Shop

Button mosaics display

By Faune Conner
Department of Parks and Tourism

From the cardle
to the Cross,
From Possession
unto loss, Seeking still,
from day to day,
For the lands
of Where-Away

The above nostalgic lines by poet James Whitcomb Riley are from a famous poem about man's eternal search to find his long dreamed of utopia—his never, never land where the grass is greener, the mountains higher and the valleys deeper. Everyone probably has his own ideal piece of the world, but few have the fortune, or good sense, to realize when they have found it.

The late Norman C. Engler, an enterprising man with a genuine appreciation for the finer things in life, found his land of Where-Away years ago in north central Arkansas along the banks of gigantic Bull Shoals Lake and the crystal clear White River. A native of Minnesota and resident of Kansas, Engler saw the enhancing, scenic Ozark Mountain area as an ideal place to display his unusual and beautiful collection of button mosaics and, in 1951, when Bull Shoals Dam was just being completed, he founded his far from the ordinary Where-Away Gift Shop in the newly developing resort paradise. In 1953, Engler permanently settled Where-Away Gift Shop in the small community of Lakeview on Arkansas State Highway 178, one mile east of the dam, and here, for the past 19 years, the now famous gift shop has received over 750,000 visitors who came to see the widely acclaimed button mosaics and the outstanding art and craft objects for sale in the unique little shop.

Engler's mosaics, the result of 30 years of hobby-time work, are elegantly rendered, large, framed pictures made entirely from buttons. Each of the 16 mosaics depict a well-known historical or religious scene and is composed of buttons from all over the world.

The mosaics began originally as an offshoot of Engler's favorite pastime, button collecting. Starting with his grandmother's button box which provided hundreds of rare, antique buttons, Engler added historical, military, political, commemorative and collector's buttons. He also found thousands of just plain pretty buttons such as fabric and pearl ones, rhinestones and jets. An ardent button fan, Engler served as president of both the Minnesota and Kansas State Button Societies and, all told, his works now contain over 250,000 beautiful buttons which, when arranged together to form images, create a striking effect.

But part of the credit for the mosaics goes to Engler's wife, Ida, who had the original idea to make pictures out of the buttons. She designed the scenes and Engler, using linen thread coated in beeswax for strength, carefully sewed the buttons on the different background fabrics always using a sturdy layer of canvas underneath.

Today, the mosaics, titled with such names as the Last Supper, Remember Pearl Harbor, Pilgrims Going To Church, Spirit of '76, and the American Eagle, hang around the walls of Where-Away Gift Shop and continue to amaze visitors with their intricately patterned scenes.

While in the Lakeview area, visitors will find ample to do, including camping at Bull Shoals State Park, trout fishing below the Dam, swimming and skiing in Bull Shoals Lake, touring fascinating Penrod Museum, Mountain Village 1890 and Bull Shoals Caverns, and just plain relaxing at one of the many lakeside resorts to enjoy the fresh Ozark air.

Infant boy traded for '71 car

IMMOKALEE, Fla. (AP) — An infant boy, who sheriff's deputies say was traded by his parents for a 1971 Chevrolet, has been taken off the critical list at Naples Community Hospital following his admittance for malnutrition and dehydration.

Collier County Sheriff Doug Hendry said warrants have been issued charging Eugene Fire and his wife Jennifer, both in their 20s, with selling 3-month-old Eugene Fires for payment or something of value. Authorities have issued a Southeast states' bulletin for them. They were believed to be headed for Alabama with their two other children in the green, late-model auto. The names and ages of the two other children were not immediately known.

The sheriff said Homer Van-noy, 34, and his wife Frances, 44, were being held in lieu of $5,000 bond in the Immokalee jail charged with receiving a child for payment or something of value. Mary Frances Hague, 33, also was in jail charged with assisting in receiving a child for payment or something of value.

The sheriff said all five persons involved in the incident were residents of a trailer court in Immokalee. All were believed to be farmworkers.

Phillipines are put under martial law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philippines government proclaimed martial law, closed major newspapers, took control of radio stations and cut communications with the outside world today for the first time since the islands gained independence from U.S. rule 26 years ago.

The drastic measures came amid unrest caused by the country's worst floods in history and a growing wave of bombings and terrorism culminating in an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate the defense secretary Friday.

An expected broadcast today by President Ferdinand E. Marcos was not heard by evening. Philippine radio stations still on the air played uninterrupted music.

Sketchy reports filtering out of the troubled nation indicated the military appeared to be playing a subdued role and martial law was not being enforced in Cebu and Mindanao.

Government sources said Marcos signed the martial law decree transferring power to local military commanders late Friday.

But other reports said the proclamation was dated Thursday, and had been prepared before Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile and his aides escaped unscathed from shots fired into Enrile's car by unidentified gunmen who fled.

Nixon, McGovern trade barbs at long-distance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon and challenger George McGovern have traded long-distance barbs as the 1972 presidential campaign appears to get a little bit more prickly.

Meanwhile, Vice President Spiro Agnew kept up his attack on the Democratic presidential nominee, and McGovern's running-mate, Sargent Shriver, flew to help Democrats in Nevada.

The President loosed his barbs from Floresville, Tex., where he and Mrs. Nixon attended a dinner with wealthy Democrats at the ranch of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

While appealing for Democratic votes Friday night, Nixon hit McGovern on defense and economic issues. As has been his custom, Nixon did not mention his Democratic challenger by name.

"We reject the arguments of those who say that we would cut our defenses so that we become the second strongest nation in the world," the President said.

McGovern made tongue-in-cheek references to the Water-gate affair and its links to Nixon's re-election organization as the Democrat campaigned Friday in Detroit, Rochester, N.Y., and Pittsburgh.

Referring to Nixon's Texas trip, McGovern said: "I don't know what this second visit's about unless he's going to come back with another suitcase full of money. The last guy they sent carried a suitcase between his legs with $700,000 in cash."

The South Dakota senator referred to recent disclosures that Nixon fundraiser Roy Win-chester flew from Texas to Washington with a suitcase containing $700,000 for Nixon's re-election fund.

Four of the checks carried in the suitcase were reported to have been found in the bank account of Bernard Barker, one of the seven men facing trial in the June 17 break-in at Democratic headquarters in the Water-gate complex in Washington. Agnew was campaigning in the South and continued hitting McGovern's criticism of U.S. bombing in Vietnam.

Meanwhile, Shriver flew to Las Vegas, Nev., to lend a hand to Democratic Gov. Mike O'Callaghan, who invited the vice-presidential candidate to speak at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner for candidates to the state Legislature.

FOOTPRINTS

By GEORGE SMITH

My wife, bless her, is a dyed-in-the-wool slug-a-bed.

On the other hand, I am, by choice and upbringing, a Day Person. I revel in sunlight, am up usually before dawn — even on weekends — and cannot understand how anyone can hug the bed-sheets past 7 o'clock.

My wife believes that any Day Person is criminally insane and should be locked forever in a brightly-lit room.

But I am proud of the fact that I can bound out of bed before the alarm clock emits its first faint buzzings; it is a sign of character and ambition. And (wife refers to it as The Curse of the Sleepies) our two children usually follow my lead, chortling and yelping like dawn-loving roosters.

I only have two jobs around the house — take out the garbage and wake my wife before I leave for work in the mornings. One job I abhor, the other I wouldn't trade for all of Carter's Pills.

"Up and at 'em, sleepy-head," I bawl morning in an imitation of Sidney Greenstreet. "You're missing the best part of the day." That is usually not sufficient even to get a faint movement from the bedclothes, so I pummel the unmoving mass with a puffy pillow: "How can you just lie there? You'll get bedsores all over your body."

Rarely, in fact never, does the first onslaught force her retreat from slumberland and I usually have to blast through a few bars of Oh, Sweet Mama, Kindly Turn Your Dampier Down" while gargling just to get her eyes open.

At that point in the past, I have always known the battle was half won; then the kids always took over.

Until lately our eldest, a running, screaming, tossed-haired stick of perpetual motion, delighted in doing situps at dawn on his mother's stomach. And our two-year-old girl has always enjoyed eating early — anywhere from 4 to 6 a.m.

Now I have to rely on Mattie as a backup, because Jason has mysteriously transformed from a Day Person to a Sleepy. I work on their mother, while Mattie runs in Jason's room and grabs heaping handfuls of hair.

My wife surprised me recently by saying: "Honey, I am going to turn over a new leaf."

"Thaz niz, swee'heart, goo' night." "No really, I mean it. I'm going to jump out of bed in the morning at the crack of sunlight and bounce around and get the kids up and fix breakfast for everybody in the neighborhood."

She did bounce out of bed the next morning the instant the alarm went off. And banged her toe on the door jam. And stepped in a soggy pair of little-girl panties. And a five-pronged Tinker Toy. That was the last time she ever turned over a new leaf.

On weekends, I try to be a sympathetic soul and occasional get the kids up semi-quietly so they can watch Captain Kringles or whomever, and their mother can sleep at least until 7:30.

And as I drag the youngest to her bowl of Grapearros while the oldest is whetting his teeth on my shin, oftentimes I catch my wife smiling smugly as she burrows her head deeper into the pillow.

Hand 25 of the Olympiad fund game illustrates a paradox of bidding. South can stretch his values a trifle and open with a forcing two-bid. After that start, South will want to pull in his horns and the partnership will stop at a safe four hearts.

If South elects to open with just one heart, North will raise him to two. South will revalue his hand and will be quite likely to get to five or even six hearts.

Six hearts is a hopeless contract, five hearts a very poor one. But some players will make it.
If West opens a spade, East may play his ace on dummy's 10, which will automatically give South his 11th trick. If East makes the correct play of the jack, South should plan to execute a strip play by ruffing out dummy's diamonds and his own last spade.

If either defender plays a club before this is accomplished, South will have a fairly easy play for the 11th trick; if the defenders leave clubs alone, South will have to play that suit himself.

The line of play to hold his loss in that suit to one trick is to lead low toward dummy and play the eight. East will win and be caught in an end play.

This is the winning play this time, but many Souths will play ace and one club in the hope that one opponent will have started with king or queen-small and will be thrown in without a third club to lead.

Letter from a Lonely Girl

Dear Rap:
Please print this in your column. Maybe someone reading it will know how I feel.

LONELY IS:
...Watching TV with your parents every weekend.

...Getting up early each morning to roll your hair and do a good makeup job and then getting to school and wondering what the use?

...Being thrilled when you can work Saturday nights.

...Listening to your friends' love problems and envying them.

...Being on cloud nine when a guy waves at you.

...Jumping every time the phone rings (you know it's not for you but there's still hope).

...Getting the right clothes but the only place to wear them is school.

...Saying the Christmas formal isn't really important, but crying yourself to sleep because you don't have a date.

...Being silently labeled by your family as "different."

...Knowing you can make a guy happy but never getting the chance.

...Telling yourself marriage is out today, and you want a career—but knowing inside that you really want that old-fashioned happiness called love.

...Watching the neighbor girl leave on dates. She's the same age as your kid sister!

...Saying you can find something else to really make your world go round (but you can't think right now, what it could be).

...Wishing—all the time.

...Mainly wishing there was no such state as being — LONELY

Dear Lonely:

Thousands of "someones" will read your letter and know how you feel—because they're in the same boat, maybe in the same classroom. And they have one trait in common: FEAR.

You lonely ones are afraid to be friendly because you fear rejection. Your self-esteem is so low that you think, "Who'd want to talk to dumb old (ugly, silent, stuttery—all those bad descriptions you lay on your-selves) me?" So you sit there, creating negative "vibes," pretending disinterest, never reaching out to others who may be just as lonely—and just as speechless.

We sympathize! Honest! Your letter was beautiful and terribly touching. But don't just DESCRIBE loneliness. Fight it—and win! Here are a few pointers:

1. Develop a confident walk and an easy, happy smile that says, "Hey, you, I'm INTERESTED in life, and maybe in you too, if you'll give me a try." You'd be amazed how much difference a swifty, carefree walk makes and, if you don't believe us, spend an afternoon "walk-watching" and you will.

2. Practice up on "sparkle." Look alive, eager, ready for whatever's happening. Meet people's eyes when you talk to them. See the funny side and don't bottle up your laughter. (But don't overkill here or you'll be a giggler.)

3. Make your shyness work for you: Admit you're shy. It brings out male protectiveness.

(Or, if you're a boy, the female mothering instinct.)

4. Speak first, if you must. (Sure, it's frightening, but maybe he's bashful too. Teenage boys are often much more unsure of themselves than they let on.)

5. Look for a boy the other girls have overlooked. He may have more going for him than the superstars (who can get pretty conceited).

6. Think well of yourself: never stop counting your GOOD points.

7. Of course it goes without saying: look your best, in a casual, "unplanned" way. Mainly, look like someone who is easy to talk to and can listen well. (And be sure you are!) — HELEN AND SUE

Temperature norm often varies

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Could you please discuss temperature and explain if it is normal for a child almost 10 to have a regular temperature ranging from 99.2 to 99.6 degrees? I first discovered this last Thanksgiving and it didn't follow an illness. She has been seen by the doctor twice and there was no sign of illness. All of her laboratory studies were normal. She looks well and has a good appetite, but I'm worried about what this means. My doctor seems unconcerned. If you say the above average temperature is nothing to worry about, I'll ignore it. Otherwise, should I take her to another doctor or what?

Dear Reader—You did the right thing in taking your daughter to the doctor for a good medical examination. Since she turned out to be perfectly normal by examination I think you could indeed forget the problem. Body temperature varies a lot in different people. The oral temperature ranges from 96.6 degrees F. to 100.0 degrees F. Not only that, some people have a normal daily variation in body temperature of as much as 2.0 degrees F. or 3.0 degrees F. Usually the body temperature is lowest between 3 and 5 in the morning and it is highest in the late afternoon or early evening. It is particularly labile in infants and it's more labile in children than it is in adults. Many normal adults have an afternoon or early evening temperature of 99.0 degrees F. or more.

Body temperature can be influenced by a good many factors. Strenuous exercise can temporarily elevate the temperature several degrees. Even eating hot, spicy foods can elevate the temperature in some people. The temperature regulating cen-

I receive many letters from women who have had their tubes tied and later regretted it. Attempts have been made for several years to reunite severed tubes or undo female sterilization operations. These have met with varied success. For readers who are concerned with the problem, however, they might be interested to know that Dr. Celso-Ramon Garcia at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia has developed a microsurgery technique. The surgery is done with the aid of a microscope and Dr. Garcia has been able to obtain successful rejoining of open tubes in 50 per cent of his cases. Of his first 14 patients, three have been pregnant and one of them has had two normal pregnancies. There are many problems associated with the reconstructive surgery but at least there's hope for those who are sorry about the whole thing.

Prescott downs Stamps, 45-13

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Quiet, consistent, cool, well-coached, all describe the Prescott Curley Wolves.

As a matter of fact, very few people who watched Prescott methodically crush the Stamps Yellowjackets, 45-13, here Friday night could argue about any of those descriptions.

Charles Montgomery's Curley Wolves scored in every quarter and the Maroon Monsters' defense sparked, but it was the spectacular show of senior quarterback Ronnie Johnson which set the mood of the battle.

Johnson threw six completions in a row, missing his target only once—that coming with a second string offense at 0:30 left in the game—as he hit his favorite target, James Langston for five touchdowns and three touch-downs.

The sparkling performance was given added brilliance by a two-yard keeper for a touchdown by the signal caller to cap the Curley Wolves' scoring with 3:50 left in the game.

Langston's five receptions netted 122 of the 130 yards of aerial acreage by the Wolves, and 16 of the 45 points.

Langston's scores came on strikes of 20, 27, and 55 yards. Junior Jerry Flemmons found daylight for two scores from 17 yards out and 10 yards away.

Terry Spearman rounded out the touchdown parade with an 82-yard kickoff return in the second period.

Stamps, meanwhile, managed to avoid a shutout with a 53-yard drive in the second quarter with Artis Butler scoring on a fourth and one situation from the one, and a fumble recovery nad run back by linebacker Paul Heintz for a score in the final period.

Flemmons got the show on the road with his 17-yard touchdown burst with 1:50 left in the first quarter as he followed Danny Ellis' block on a reverse and

Hope defeats Fairview, 20-0

By ALAN FOSTER

Last night at Camden the Hope Bobcats continued to win as they waxed Camden Fairview's Cardinals by a score of 20-0. The Cats were once again slow getting started but when they did there was no stopping them. Hope fumbled three times in the first half and lost all three. Some brilliant defensive play gave the Cats the power they needed to go on to victory.

outran all the Jackals to put Prescott ahead 6-0. Tony Spearman's run for the PAT failed.

The sprint by Flemmons capped a five-play, 32-yard drive.

The Johnson-to-Langston combined first clicked with 9:40 left in the half.

Langston ran a post pattern and beat Yellowjacket Allen White to gather in Johnson's perfect strike in stride for a 20-yard scoring play. The run for PAT failed.

After the ball changed hands Montgomery sent in a fresh squad of offensive men, and was greeted by one of the few Curley Wolves mistakes of the night.

New quarterback Tony Spearman pitched the ball over halfback Herbert Adams head on an option play at the 33-yard line. The Jackals' Heintz recovered the pigskin at the 10 and carried it into the end zone for Stamps' other touchdown. Fallin's kick failed.
